BEN JOHNSON SAVES GOVERNMENT $600,000

His Plans Providing for Enlargement of Capitol Grounds Adopted Unanimously.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Without a dissenting vote the House to-day passed the Johnson resolution providing for the acquisition of property near the Union Station for the enlargement of the Capitol grounds.

The property was previously acquired, but President Wilson held up the awards on the Kentuckian's complaint that the awards for certain railroad property were excessive. In the new resolution the awards commission can pay the railroad only the original cost of the property and interest.

Representative Post, of Ohio, sponsored a substitute resolution without this restriction that was defeated. Representative Ben Johnson's resolution represented a saving of $600,000 to the Federal Government.

C. J. Barnes, of Shreveport, La., formerly of Hawesville, came to Hardinsburg Thursday to see his aged mother, Mrs. Mary Barnes, who will return to Shreveport with him. She has sold her property in Hardinsburg and bought a nice home in Shreveport where she will reside the remainder of her days.

CONGRESSMAN BEN JOHNSON

SPEAKS TO INTERESTED CROWD MONDAY

Urges Democrats to Stand by Our President by Voting For Beckham and Camden, Two of the Best Democrats the Party Has Ever Known.

Col. Ben Johnson dropped down on a big crowd at Hardinsburg Monday like a bomb from a German airship. Nobody was looking for him or expecting him. But he was there just the same. His coming got noised abroad over the telephone. Vic Pile got busy and a crowd of loyal, peace-loving Democrats, Republicans and Progressives sives hurried to the county Capital to hear the great Commoner and guardian of the people's rights. They came in buggies, horseback, on the train, and some walked five miles, so eager were they to see their honored Congressman and hear him tell the story of his work in Washington.

Mr. Johnson was introduced in a short complimentary speech by Gen. D. R. Murray. Mr. Johnson said he was not a public speaker and made no pretensions to oratory, but he would try to give an account of his stewardship and his work in Congress. He said he had been there for nearly eighteen months continuously doing his duty as best he could, and looking after the interests of his people at home. This was his first opportunity to appear before the people in the interest of his race for Congress. I had rather he defeated, he said, than to sacrifice the interests of my people. I am only here at this late day to urge all people who love peace and the great policies of Woodrow Wilson, to come out and vote for these policies. You have two of the best men in Kentucky, or in this nation, to vote for in this election—in J. C. W. Beckham and J. N. Camden. If you elect them you will have men who will stand by Woodrow Wilson and his policies. They are good men and true to all the principals of Democracy, and will help to carry on the work so ably begun by Mr. Wilson and the Democratic administration. You owe it to them and to yourselves that the work of this administration should be endorsed by you, and your vote for the Democratic nominees next Tuesday will help them and show that you endorse their work.

He said, if you don't approve the work and Mr. Wilson's policies, you should vote for my opponent, Sherman Ball. He is a stand-pat Republican, a follower of Taft, and is opposed to every measure passed by the Democratic administration. If you elect him he will vote to tear down all that has been done by the Democrats in Congress for the past eighteen months.

Mr. Johnson spoke for an hour. He had the best of attention, and his utterances were loudly applauded and every word seemed to sink deep into the hearts of the people.

Hon. G. K. Holbert, of Elizabethtown, who was billed for a speech, made one that was well received and applauded. He is an orator, a man of brain and power, and is fully posted on the issues of the day.

To Our Public Spirited Citizens.

For some time past there has been house to house canvassers or salespeople visiting our city which was just recently rebuilt from a heap of ashes. We are striving to maintain our stores, and in doing so, we must have your patronage. As you know, thread is an inexpensive article to you, but the dealers (ourselves) make but little profit on thread; likewise pins, calicoes, ginghams, and many other articles too numerous to mention. On the other hand you are paying an illegitimate profit on the article we are thinking about. Knowing that the saleslady who calls on you makes a profit of from 40 to 50 per cent. on her sales to you. No you do not know that, and we knew before we wrote this article that you did not know it, or you had never thought of the truth of the matter. Therefore we deem it necessary to call your attention to these facts.

Just a couple of other things and a question to ask you! How many of you are pleased after you purchase? If not, why not compare the article purchased with what we have in stock, or can order for you at a more reasonable and legitimate profit?

The last thing to be thought of is the FACT that YOUR children must be educated. Can this be done if your patronage is taken away on a most profitable article? We merchants pay a large part of the school tax and we must have your patronage to do it.

The last, but not the least, is the fact that the churches of your little town, and of the surrounding country, MUST be supported. Have you lost sight of the fact that we merchants and business men contribute to a large degree to the maintenance of these institutions which you could not and would not do without? And for us to continue in giving to the churches and paying taxes, we must have your patronage, which by our standing in civil society in your town and county, rightly belongs to us.

TRADE AT HOME! PATRONIZE NO CANVASSERS! WE WILL TREAT YOU RIGHT! THINK THIS OVER!

Do you want your stores occupied by progressive business people, or would you drive them from your midst and see only blank, dreary looking empty houses. (Signed):

SITUATION CONTINUES THE SAME

No Decisive Outcome Noted.

INCESSANT FIGHTING

Contest Between Giant Armies Still a Draw.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM POINTS

Regional Successes Seem to Be Counterbalanced.

Berlin special: The enveloping movement of the allies that had been directed against the German right flank movement has been stopped and the Germans are pushing the enemy slowly back in a southward course. The total number of prisoners confined in Germany Oct. 21 is given as 5,401 officers and 291,468 men, including six French, eighteen Russian and three Belgian generals.

Paris special: A German advance in Belgium was counterbalanced Sunday by French successes in the region of Verdun. The Kaiser's forces had slightly the better of hard fighting at the extreme west of the line, but General Joffre's troops dealt destructive blows toward the extreme east. The general situation as indicated by the official reports remains the same—inconstant, violent fighting with no decisive outcome.

Veering from the seacoast and punished by British and French naval guns, the Germans hurled an army against the Belgians defending the River Yser and were able to cross the Yser between Nieuport and Dixmude, probably at a point about six miles from the coast line. The Germans brought heavy guns from Leke and Krupp determined the conflict. It had taken the Kaiser's troops ten days to beat back the gallant army commanded by King Albert.

Crown Prince Suffers Reverse. The victories of the allies were won north and south of Verdun in the consistent effort to protect that fortress and to recapture the German position at St. Mihiel. The army of the crown prince was beaten in the Argonne forest and a regiment of his troops was cut to pieces. Almost simultaneously French artillery destroyed three German batteries on the upper Meuse, presumably in the attack on the German fortifications at St. Mihiel and Camp de Romulus and French artillery was advanced to command the German line of communication from St. Mihiel eastward. Six batteries have been put out of action within two days by the French guns.

To add to the trials of the troops engaged in the desperate fighting, a short spell of fine weather has given place to another downpour of rain, which will convert the lowlands of Flanders into lakes.

Efforts to Seize Railroads.

General Joffre's summary of the operations on the west flank was that the Germans attacked violently from Nieuport to the Oise, but that they were beaten back everywhere except at the Yser. As on previous days, the German onslaught was fiercest near Lille, where the effort is to seize the railroads toward Calais and Boulogne, but the allies' line was unbreakable.

Along the old center, where intrenched troops have faced each other for forty-three days, there was renewed activity with the advantage slightly to the allies. Near Soissons and near Craonne, the British and French troops have gained advanced positions.

There is unofficial news that the Anglo-French fleet retains command of the Belgian coast and that the Germans may have to evacuate Ostend and other ports where troops could be landed by the allies.

It Always Does the Work.

"I like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy better than any other," writes R. E. Roberts, Homer City, Pa. "I have taken it off and on for years and it has never failed to give the desired results." For sale by all dealers.

Algerian Olive Trees.

In Algeria olive trees spring up wild and are grafted where they stand. In some regions they are so close as to touch overhead. The average annual yield for a tree is eighty to 100 pounds. Some of the trees are believed to be over 400 years old. It is estimated that there are over 5,000,000 wild olive trees in Algeria. The grafting of these is being carried out systematically under the auspices of the government.

Those having the misfortune to suffer from backache, urinary disorders, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatic pains or other kidney and bladder disorders, will read with gratification this encouraging statement by a Cloverport man.

J. C. Weatherholt, grocer Cloverport, Ky., says: "Two years ago I had little idea that I would ever be well again. I had settled up my affairs, believing that it would be impossible for me to last a great while longer. The pain in my back was terrible, especially when I stooped. It seemed as if someone had run a knife into me. My heart action was irregular. I became dizzy and often had to catch hold of something to keep from falling. My knee joints were swollen to twice their normal size and I had lost weight until I was a mere skeleton. The kidney secretions contained sediment and the passages were painful. Doctors' medicine did me no good, neither did the so-called kidney cures. A friend had been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills and I decided to give them a trial, procuring my supply at Fisher's Drug store. I was surprised and delighted with the results of their use. I was soon cured."

CARRANZA TO BE GIVEN HIS CONGE

Peace Conference Going to Depose First Chief.

A COMBINATION AGAINST HIM

With the Arrival of Zapata Delegates to the Aguas Calientes Conference the Villa Men Have Secured Additional Support Sufficient to Oust From His Place the Present Provisional President of Mexico.

Aguas Calientes, Mexico, Oct. 26.—General Carranza will be deposed as first chief of the Constitutionalists and a new provisional president when the peace convention reconvenes here today. This, according to unofficial announcement, will be accomplished through an agreement between the Villa and the Zapata delegates to the conference. It is claimed that Carranza delegates, learning of the agreement, have decided to refrain from taking any further part in the conference.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Proceedings of the Mexican peace conference at Aguas Calientes are expected to be resumed today with the arrival of twenty-six delegates representing Zapata. The state department received a dispatch from Mexico City stating that the Zapata delegates passed through the capital Saturday on their way to the conference.

Carranza recently has exhibited an attitude of antagonism to the convention. The general opinion is that the convention will not decide in favor of him for the provisional presidency so that the first chief will soon be called on to show whether or not he is willing to abide by the decision.

It is reported that Carranza's ill feeling toward the convention, Villa adherents, however, insist that their leader is not making an effort to dominate the convention and will abide by his pledge to accept its decisions.

ROUTED ATTACKING PARTY

Villa Garrison at Parral Scatters Force of Carranza Troops.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 26.—Leading a force of 1,200 Carranza troops, General Maclovio Herrera has launched the force declared by the Aguas Calientes peace conference and has attacked Parral, an important mining town in Chihuahua, defended by a Villa garrison of about 1,200. After four hours of severe fighting, most of it in the streets of the town, the Carranza troops were routed and fled to the mountains west of the town. Herrera lost 100 killed and 200 wounded, and he left behind a number of machine guns and a quantity of ammunition.

The Carranza troops surprised the Villa garrison, arriving during the night and getting into the town before the Villa men knew it. The attack was opened violently with rifle and machine gun fire, poured into the quarters of the sleeping garrison. One barracks in which were forty-six Villa men was surrounded. All but twelve of the forces were killed in the fight, and when the remaining twelve surrendered they were led out and shot to death. The losses of the Villa garrison is given at 100 in killed and wounded.

One of the first men killed was Captain Soso, Herrera's most trusted lieutenant, who with Herrera led the attack upon the town. Most of the fighting during the four hours that Carranza and his men were in Parral was at close range, much of it being hand to hand fighting around the three barracks.

Advices reaching here say that Carranza was completely routed and that his men are scattered in the mountains around Parral and are badly demoralized.

GRANDSONS OF TERRAZAS

Among the Victims of Carranza's Order of Extermination.

El Paso, Oct. 26.—Members of the family of General Luis Terrazas, the multi-millionaire of Chihuahua, now a refugee here, have been advised that two grandsons of General Terrazas have been executed by the Carranza forces. The reports say that Luis Terrazas, the third, whose father had been held a prisoner by Villa in Chihuahua for the past year, was put to death in Mexico City. He was an officer in the Huerta administration and had refused to flee from the capital when Carranza entered. The other grandson, Major Guillermo Terrazas, who fled with a regiment of Huerta troops from Mexico City to Puebla, is reported to have been executed there by the Carranza commander, who put all the officers to death following their capture.

A Mighty Pumpkin Vine.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Oct. 26.—Three pumpkins, weighing respectively 83, 57 and 71 pounds, were gathered by S. J. Vinson from a single vine.

Announcement is made by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that the new banking system will become operative throughout the United States on Nov. 16.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR

A Rotterdam correspondent says that the whole Belgian coast has been deserted and that only soldiers remain in the coast town. There are scores of reports more or less favorable to the allies, but it seems evident that the German offensive in Belgium and northern France continues and is being worked up to a supreme effort. The fighting, which has consisted very largely of artillery combats, with occasional infantry charges, has been going on for over a week, since the Germans moved south from Ostend and Bruges. It is not believed here that the struggle can be continued as successfully as has been the struggle along the Oise and the Aisne.

Probably the situation is more critical than at any time since the first invasion which began from Liege and Namur. It is reported that the German commanders again are adopting the policy of backing through at whatever cost. The German losses in Belgium in the past week are estimated at 10,000 killed and wounded. All reports, both the General Joffre's point to a further supreme effort to take the road to Paris.

An idea of the severity of the fighting in Belgium was gained from a dispatch from Dunkirk, which says that 700 German dead have been buried near Nieuport as a result of the fighting there and that the total German casualties in the coast fighting were 10,000. Thirty thousand Germans who had intrenched themselves between Ostend and Nieuport retired to Ostend, leaving behind a great quantity of equipment.

Must Be Decided Soon.

North of Soissons, in the region which is the cornerstone of the battle line, there was an artillery conflict with the result favorable to the British and French. General Joffre reports that three German batteries were put out of action. Eastward to the Argonne ridge there was no fighting of importance, but the official report states that the French gained slight successes in the region of Verdun.

Correspondents in Belgium and northern France assert that the allies have made more progress than has been reported by the commander in chief; that the warships have made the Belgian coast too hot for the Germans to hold; that a retreat has already begun from the coast, and that the main conflict on the whole west flank must be decided very soon, if for no other reason than the terrible losses which both sides are suffering. Newspaper correspondents in Petrograd send details of the Russian flank movement west of Warsaw which decided days of severe fighting. They declare that only time is required to turn the German forces into a beaten mob. Russian cavalry is pursuing the Germans and forcing them to traverse roads which are hardly better than sloughs and which are fringed by bog land and marshy forests. Prisoners and other trophies of war are falling into the hands of the Russians.

Siberian Troops Warmly Praised.

Documents taken from prisoners captured in the battles near Warsaw proved that the Germans expected to capture Warsaw between Oct. 15 and Oct. 17. But they were unprepared for the rapidly displayed by the Russian commander in blinding up reinforcements. The statement warmly praises the Siberian troops who played a notable part in rescuing Warsaw and compelling the withdrawal of the Germans.

The splendid fighting qualities of the Siberians and the use made of these fresh troops in the nick of time, is a dramatic feature of recent operations in the east. In previous weeks Siberian regiments mobilized at the outbreak of war had been concentrated in the Praga district of Warsaw held ready to strike at a decisive moment. A correspondent at Gdansk reports that the splendid physique of the Siberians and of other Russian troops counted heavily when bad weather arrived and much of the fighting was done in no-man's-land.

The official report that the Germans are being driven westward is borne out by dispatches to London newspapers from Petrograd and Warsaw. From the East Prussian front there is no news of importance. It seems that the Germans have settled down on a line of defense west of the Mazur lakes and that they are in strength and positions to hold their ground.

Valley View Farm

When one comes in sight of Valley View Farm he will always say: "That is where Mr. Henderson lives, the great worker, for Sunday-schools." The proprietors of this place are T. B. Henderson and his son, W. B. Henderson. The farm was purchased about seven years ago by them, and a little later they found they needed a name. Because from the farm can be seen the valleys for miles in every direction they chose Valley View. It joins the town of Webster and is pleasantly and conveniently situated. The proprietors extend a hearty hospitality to all their friends and they have many which they consider a most valuable asset. Mr. Henderson writes that he thinks a name to a place, makes the owners inclined to keep things in repair and worthy of its title.

Big Men of Nation Go to Church. Get the Habit! Join the Procession!

It is deplorable, but nevertheless true, that there are men who think it savors of effeminacy to be seen often in church. These men should awaken to the error of their ways.

The really strong men, the men of the nation, are constant churchgoers. They rarely miss a Sunday. The story is told of a great composer who on one occasion was accorded a magnificent ovation. The audience cheered him for fully five minutes. It was a tribute calculated to turn any man's head. Then there came cries for a speech. The composer faced the great multitude of his admirers and said:

"WHAT DOTTH IT PROFIT A MAN TO GAIN THE WHOLE WORLD AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL?"

THAT WAS ALL. THE AUDIENCE WAS ELECTRIFIED. THEY KNEW THE DEEP RELIGION OF THE MAN AND GRASPED THE SIGNIFICANCE OF HIS REMARKS. THE OVATION THAT WENT BEFORE WAS AS NOTHING COMPARED TO THAT WHICH FOLLOVED. THAT GREAT AUDIENCE DIDN'T THINK THIS MAN EFFEMINATE. HE WAS BIG ENOUGH TO PROCLAIM PUBLICLY HIS FAITH IN GOD AND A HEREAFTER. IT IS THE WEAK RATHER THAN THE STRONG MAN WHO, WHILE PROFESSING A BELIEF IN GOD, REMAINS AWAY FROM CHURCH. IF YOU BELIEVE IN GOD, PRACTICE YOUR BELIEF BY GOING TO CHURCH. GOD DOESN'T ASK MUCH OF YOUR TIME.

Don't delay GOING TO CHURCH. Start in next Sunday. Get the habit. You'll find it is not a hard task. Join the procession. By going to church you set a good example to your neighbor. It will set him thinking. You will please your wife, your mother, your sister. It will fill them with happiness to see that you are on the road to righteousness. And be honest with yourself. Don't you know you are a lot happier after an hour with God? GO TO CHURCH!

MERCHANTS OF HARDINSBURG MAKE SPECIAL REQUEST.

The merchants of Hardinsburg deserve laudable commendation in making a request of their citizens not to patronize canvassers. They might go one step further and ask their citizens not to become agents for the goods they handle. Citizens, as a rule, are annoyed beyond endurance with agents and canvassers, who are often times their best friends.

The goods we buy from our friends who are agents for toilet articles, corsets, hosiery and household supplies, are very seldom satisfactory. Nine times out of ten, we buy merely to please, to accommodate, and not because we are getting what we want. Indeed, not only the merchants of Hardinsburg would be grateful, but citizens in every place would be relieved to see our good friends give up certain agencies.

GROWING OLD IN CLOVERPORT.

People in Cloverport should not loathe to grow older. For one does not have to stay on the sunny side of forty to enjoy life in this dear old town. The older people have a good time. The old people have a grand time. No one suffers from isolation. Mother is never given a back seat when the daughters entertain, and the father never gets too old or too busy to enjoy a social hour quite often with his children. The old and the young come together at home, at the church, at the club and at the lodge, for interchange of ideas, study of music and helpful instruction that makes life worth while. Growing old in Cloverport does not mean that one is growing useless and lonesome. Every coming day furnishes opportunity for fullness and efficiency in life. What is true here is true of every other place in the world.

Burton Vance, Progressive nominee for the United States Senate, has received a letter from ex-President Roosevelt in which he vigorously denounces those who pretend to be his friends but are going to vote the Republican ticket this fall. He makes it plain that this is a fight for principle, and that the Republican party can never hope to hold, or deserve, the support of the people until it rids itself of the unscrupulous leaders and corrupt bosses that have brought disaster upon it. In expressing his regret that he will not be able to make any speeches in Kentucky, President Roosevelt appeals to every friend that he has in this State to vote for Burton Vance for the Senate and show to the people that Kentucky refuses to ally itself with the Republican party.

In his letter to Congressman Underwood President Wilson commends the work of the Democratic Congress and confesses that without their aid it would have been impossible for him to have carried out the policies to which the Democracy stands pledged. It will be necessary for the President to have a Democratic House and Senate next year to complete the work that he has so admirably begun. The election of Governor Beckham and Senator Camden is, for that reason, most important. To send a Republican to the Senate or Congress from Kentucky this year would be a rebuke to the President and a blow to the party in this State from which it would never recover.

When Augustus E. Willson ran for Governor he had great crowds to hear him speak and thousands of Democrats voted for him. This year his speeches have been a frost and his audiences have been most disheartening in point of numbers and lack of enthusiasm. At Greenup the other day, although he had been advertised for weeks, the Republican Committee could not get as many as forty people to attend his meeting. At other points in the same county he had as few as nine people to hear him speak. If the frosts that have descended upon Willson had fallen upon the crops of the State, Kentucky would be bankrupt and its people would perish of starvation.

Mr. Bryan has published over his signature in the Commoner an editorial reviewing Governor Beckham's political career and strongly endorsing his candidacy for the Senate. No higher compliment could be paid any man than to have the friendship of William J. Bryan, because he himself is a pure man and a patriot, and he only stands for those men who are clean, able and loyal to the party principles. In all the years that Mr. Bryan has been in public life, battling for the great ideas that are now the very foundation of Democracy, Mr. Beckham has been his staunch supporter and defender.

The Poultry Show at Hardinsburg to be held some time in November, promises to be one of the best ever held in the county. All the poultry raisers in the county will be represented and the interest is growing. It will be a great show for the poultry men and women, and will demonstrate what is being done in the county in this line. A liberal list of premiums will be given. Everybody is invited to come.

In Louisville last Monday $6,200 was raised in the annual tag day collection taken by the King's Daughters to support the district nurse work in that city. This same work was started in Breckenridge county last summer and will be taken up again next April.

TWO FUNERALS AT IRVINGTOW LAST WEEK

James Frank Briggs Dies In Louisville.—Mrs. H. J. Gorsuch, Young Mother, Victim Of Typhoid Fever.

MANY ATTEND SERVICES.

Irvington, Oct. 26. (Special.)—On Tuesday, Oct. 26th at the Irvington M. E. Church, Rev. T. J. Wade conducted the funeral services of James Frank Briggs, who died at his home in Louisville, on Oct. 18th of typhoid fever. He was thirty-five years of age and leaves a father, mother, two sisters and three brothers to mourn his loss. The following young men acted as pall bearers: Porie Galloway, Harry Conniff, R. L. Jordan, Robert Lyon, Laure Cox and Dr. W. B. Taylor. The remains were interred in the Cedar Hill cemetery. James Frank was formerly a citizen of our town, and highly respected by all, his loving attention to his aged mother and sisters was very noticeable, therefore winning kind thoughts by all who knew him. The community at large extend heartfelt sympathy.

Mrs. H. J. Gorsuch died Saturday morning of typhoid fever, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Simmons. She was 29 years of age, leaves a father, mother, husband and three daughters, besides numerous relatives and friends, to mourn her death. The remains were interred in Cedar Hill cemetery Sunday morning. Rev. W. W. Stout conducted the funeral services. Friends extend sympathy to the grieving ones.

"Fair View" Near Garfield.

An interesting letter received is about "Fair View," the little home of Mr. W. T. Dowell, of Garfield. It was the boyhood home of the honorable U. H. Dowell, the county judge of Breckenridge county. In 1850 the place belonged to Uncle David Garrett, and later it was handed down to the honorable Green Beard, still later it became the property of the present owner.

Mr. Dowell writes: "I can stand in my front yard and see the trains one mile away as they pass by. I have a view of all the transportation on the Louisville dirt road, I also have a view of the bustling little town of Garfield, so with this beautiful outlook, which is a great source of pleasure to me, I call my home 'Fair View' and think the place does justice to the name."

America Safe.

With President Wilson at the head of the nation and Secretary Bryan at his right hand, there is little danger that we shall become involved in the great war. Things are bound to happen as hostilities proceed which will inflame the jingo spirit in this country, and those who mistake wise patience and love of peace for cowardice will scream for revenge for some real or fancied grievance. But the men who guide our national destinies have shown by their admirable conduct of our Mexican relations that they are not to be influenced by the outcries of the untidying and the excitable.—Ohio State Journal (Rep.).

KING OF SAXONY

Heads Teuton Army Resisting the Russians.

Petrograd special: A great battle is raging near Yedlinsko, north of Radom, in southern Poland.

The Austro-German army commanded by the king of Saxony is making a stand behind lines of intrenchments thrown up three weeks ago. There is no official report on the battle, but it is confirmed at ministry of war that the combat is of great proportions and has not yet been decided. The Saxons composed the right wing of the German host which was defeated along the Vistula from Oct. 14 to Oct. 18. The strength of the army is estimated at 300,000 and the Russians are attacking with probably 500,000.

The retreat of this wing, according to a correspondent at Warsaw, resolved itself into a question of reaching the line of intrenchments or being cut to pieces by Russian cavalry. Apparently the Saxons and Austrians have been able to reform and disorganized corps and are making a stubborn fight to bar the way to Silesia.

It is believed here that the outcome of the battle will be complete victory for the Russian left wing, since the Austro-German force can expect little if any support from the German center, which is hard pressed in the region of Lodz. To the north the German left wing has been driven west of Skiernewicz and is offering little resistance. Dispatches received from Warsaw say that thousands of German prisoners have been taken to that city, including officers of high rank.

A dispatch from Lemberg states that there has been no important result from the nine-days' battle in Galicia, although the Austrians are showing signs of weakening. Russian columns have made slight advances west of the San and have taken 6,000 prisoners and some field and machine guns.

He was an officer in the Huerta administration and had refused to flee from the capital when Carranza entered. REVEALED A CRUEL CRIME

Discovery of Young Girl's Body Discloses Shocking Murder.

South Bend, Ind., special: The discovery of the decomposed body of Hazel Macklin, aged fifteen, in a vault at Island park Sunday afternoon clears up the mystery of the child's disappearance last August. There is no doubt the girl was murdered. Around her neck was a man's shirt tied and knotted, showing she had been strangled and her body then thrown into the vault. The condition of the body shows the girl died lightning. The police have no clue to the identity of the murderer.

HOW CHILDREN LEARN TO BUY

New Branch of New York's School Course Explained.

MODEL STORES INSTALLED.

Pupils Receive Practical Instruction of Value to Their Parents—White Aproned Teachers Show Them the Way to Be Successful Purchasers of Staple Commodities.

Model stores at which provisions are bought and sold have been opened in New York public schools for the instruction of school children.

The plan was adopted by the board of education at the suggestion of Chairman George W. Perkins of the mayor's food committee. It is hoped that the children will take many of the ideas learned in school home and thus not only become good marketers themselves, but impart the knowledge to their parents.

Most of the school principals have appropriated empty storerooms or large closets for the model stores.
Shelves and counters are built close to the walls, and white aproned teachers, equipped with scales and ladles, instruct the children how to buy food staples intelligently.

Real Food Supply.

A large toy factory got a rush order for several thousand sets of toy stores. Small boxes are labeled tea, other boxes are marked salt, beans, peas, etc.

In a few schools real food commodities are traded in, and the scholars are told to watch the scales to see that purchases are sold at fair weights.

As part of the domestic science courses boys and girls are taken to nearby markets by teachers and given practical lessons in selecting vegetables and groceries.

Miss Mary R. Davis, principal of public school No. 1, outlined the new "food course" to a reporter.

Watch Quality and Scales.

"The children were very anxious to know if they were to have real money," she said. "We thought it best to prepare pieces of cardboard and wooden cylinders with money values marked on them."

"The little people are taught to comment upon the quality of the ingredients, and on whatever they purchased and to pay attention carefully that they receive only weight."

"They are also given a good business lesson by being all the bookkeeping for the store. Of course they learn to make change."

"One of the best hours in Washington market sends us a note when he has an animal to cut up, and a party of children is sent down in care of a teacher. She explains different cuts and what each is worth."

"The model store is a new phase of the domestic science courses, which have been in operation in New York public schools for several years. The thing which makes it sure of success is that the children look upon the practical work of buying and selling more as a recreation than part of their regular studies."

WAS A NOTED MATHEMATICIAN

Michael A. McGinnis Wrote a Book on Algebra While in Prison.

Michael Angelo McGinnis, a mathe-matician of international fame, who died in a Kansas City (Mo.) hospital, wrote a book on algebra, called "Algebra, the Father of Solution For Numerical and Literal Equations," while confined in a Missouri penitentiary. It was published in this country and attracted the attention of mathematicians and educators all over the world.
He was a descendant of John M. Walpole, the inventor of logarithms, who died in 1617.

For some time McGinnis was professor of mathematics at Wichita, Kan., and later at a college in Missouri. Not long after this he was sent to the penitentiary for forging a deed and in August, 1910, applied to the governor of the state for a pardon, claiming that he had worked out a number of mathematical problems that had been universally despised of.
Among these he said that he had found the exact ratio of the diameter of a circle to its radius, that he had found the exact root of all numbers and that he could reduce equations of the tenth degree.

PREDICTS RUSH TO AMERICA.

Thousands Will Leave Countries Where War Is Conducted.

It is the opinion of a writer in the London Times that the war in Europe will result in a great influx of people into America. He says that the United States is the only country in the world that is not engaged in the war, and that it is the only country that is not suffering from the effects of the war.

The writer says that the war has been a great disaster to the world, and that it has caused the death of millions of people. He says that the war has also caused the destruction of many cities and the loss of many homes. He says that the war has also caused the loss of many jobs and the poverty of many people. He says that the war has also caused the loss of many lives and the suffering of many people. He says that the war has also caused the loss of many homes and the poverty of many people. He says that the war has also caused the loss of many lives and the suffering of many people.

Suffered Twenty-One Years— Finally Found Relief.

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kimer's Swamp-Root. Injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefited me for two years. When the same pain came one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours, MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE,
Rapides Par.

Echo, La.
Personally appeared before me, this 15th day of July, 1911, Mrs. Joseph Constance, who subscribed to the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

CONCRETE ON THE FARM.

Used For Barns, Silos, Henhouses, Bridges and Cellars.

Not long ago the farmer hardly knew what concrete was. Now he builds barns, silos, henhouses, bridges and cellars of it.

Where some years ago the farmer used a pile of old boards, a saw and a hammer to build his hen coop, his gate post and his water trough, he usually now takes part of a bag of cement, mixes it with sand and gravel and adapts concrete to his purposes.

Today he has many appliances about the farm that are made of concrete, and that last forever. This change started with silos and fence posts, and there is no end to the uses to which the handy man about the house can put the versatile material. Out on a farm in Illinois, where an electric generator supplies electricity to the farmhouse, one man built a sort of cyclone cellar for the plant. Owing to the danger of explosions, the ordinary concrete cellar no longer serves to put a gas plant in the basement of his residence, but if this generator should explode it probably would not even shatter the walls of the little concrete house that contains it.

Fresh water is supplied to the chickens on another farm with the aid of a concrete pool. It is long and wide and so shallow that ducks and geese do not try to swim in it. A pump at one side supplies it with fresh water. This same flock of fortunate chickens has a solid concrete house of two rooms; one room has a concrete floor and perches for the convenience of its occupants, and the other room has a floor of earth, where the chickens can scratch about in the winter time. The roosting room, with the concrete floor, can be flushed out and kept perfectly sanitary, the water running from it to a waste outlet at one side.

When it comes to drainage on the farm concrete steps in and helps out the farmer. Culverts are now being made in sections so that, after the excavation is made and a solid concrete foundation put in the sides and the arch can be added later.

The silo, the first appliance to adapt itself to concrete, has grown enormi-ously in size. One of the biggest of them is sixty-two feet high and has walls that are eight inches thick. It will hold enough ensilage to fatten five carloads of beef cattle. It only took a month to build it and its total cost was but $3000. This is the latest type of silo, built tall, and with a small diameter, because in this way the room is used more economically. . . . The smaller the diameter the less waste there is in proportion.

Paris in 1775.

Crime was so rife in the good city of Paris in the year 1775 that half a dozen corpses were shown most mornings in the morning, and nets were lowered each night from the Pont Neuf to catch the persons thrown over by the effluents. Yet the punishments were by no means lenient, and dekay gives a horrible description of how he had seen a criminal broken on the wheel without stirring from the balcony of his own apartment, when "Monsieur de Paris" discharged the duty of his office in bag, wig and ruf-fes and bien poudre.

The Salt Sea Legend

There is a legend in the Norse sagas which explains why the sea is salt.
The "mountain Frod" whose mythical realm was a golden age indeed, possessed a quern, or hand mill, which ground out gold and pearls, but which would grind out stores of anything desired by its owner. Two giant maid-ens, ruled over by Frod, were the grinders. In an evil day a sea rover came upon the scene, stole Frod and carried off the quern and the two giant maidens who worked it. When the sea rover's vessel was right out at sea he ordered the maidens to grind salt. At midnight they asked if they had not ground enough. The sea rover, angry at being awakened from his sleep, commanded them to grind until morning. Now the giant maidens naturally enough worked very quickly, so as they went on grinding the load of salt grew so heavy that it sank the ship, and now the sea will continue salt forever.

Atop of Mount McKinley.

Archdeacon Stuck in his account of his climb to the summit of Mount Mc-Kinley, "The Ascent of Denali," gives this description of his impressions upon reaching it: "Immediately before us, in the direction in which we had climbed, lay—nothing; a void, a sheer gulf many thousands of feet deep, and one shrank back instinctively from the little parapet of snow basin when one had gazed at the awful profundity.
Across the gulf, about 3,000 feet beneath us and fifteen or twenty miles away, sprang most splendidly into view the great mass of Denali's Wife, or Mount Foraker, as some white men misnomer her, billing majestically all the middle distance. . . . And never was nobler sight displayed to man than that great isolated mountain, spread out completely, with all its spurs and ridges, its cliffs and its glaciers, lofty and mighty, and yet far beneath us.
 . . . Beyond stretched, blue and vague to the southwest, the wide valley of the Kuskokwim, with an end of all mountains. . . . It was, however, to the south and the east that the most marvelous prospect opened before us.

time had decided to throw its lot with Germany, has again assured the ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Russia that it intends to maintain its policy of neutrality. Turkey, however, continues its military activities and is collecting transport animals, which, it is said, are destined for the Egyptian frontier.

A TRUMPET CALL TO DEMOCRACY

Senator Camden In Ring- ing Words, Tells of His Party's Services

"WOODROW WILSON, DE- MOCRACY AND KENTUCKY"

Senator Camden's Statement of the Great Services Rendered to the People By Woodrow Wilson and His Administration Was Strongly and Impressively Told.

Versailles, Ky., Oct. 26.—Senator Johnson N. Camden addressed his home people here this afternoon. His statement of the great services rendered to the people by Woodrow Wilson and his administration was very strongly and impressively told as a business man would tell it without frills or furbelows. His speech in full was as follows:

My friends I have been complimented and honored with a seat in the United States Senate as one of the Representatives from Kentucky. I would be an ingrate did I not embrace this, my first opportunity, to extend to you, and through you, to the Democracy of Kentucky, my profound and heartfelt thanks for the magnificent vote and endorsement given to me at the primary election last August. I was prevented from prosecuting a canvass of the state in the interest of my candidacy, and from meeting you face to face, by reason of the measures of importance pending in Congress demanding my presence there as your representative, in discharge of the trust committed by you to my hands, and yet you gave me such a splendid majority and endorse-

SENATOR JOHNSON N. CAMDEN

ment, that I am unable to find words with which to express to you my obligation and my thanks.

I have earnestly endeavored during my short term of office to represent Kentucky—in conjunction with my distinguished colleague, Hon. Ollie M.
James—in her varied interests to the very best of my ability by being faithfully at the post of duty, and by casting my vote for those measures which I conceived to be best for the interests of the country; believing that in this way I could best demonstrate my appreciation of your confidence and my loyalty to your interests.

An Appreciated Honor.

It is an honor to represent any state in the Federal Senate; to participate in the framing of legislation in the interests of the great American people, but, especially is it a high honor to represent in that body the great State of Kentucky, a state so rich in its heritage and its history. While I can not claim the honor of being a native of Kentucky, I do claim to know a good thing when I see it, and I came here soon after attaining my majority, as soon as I was authorized to act for myself. You will observe that to me being a Kentuckian is a matter of selection and choice, while you natives really deserve no credit, as you had no say so whatever, but were just born here, and couldn't help yourselves.

I heard of some objections to my candidacy because I was not a native Kentuckian, but to my mind a state which has furnished to the other states of the Union 10 of their governors and which has at the present time four native Kentuckians in the United States Senate, representing other states, and claims as her sons the Speaker and Leader of the Lower House of Congress, should be generous enough not to raise her voice against one who came as soon as he could, who expects to live and die and be buried here—surely this should be sufficient proof of his adoption and devotion.

My friends, I wish to say that in looking backwards, as the State Chairman of Woodrow Wilson's Campaign, I have a feeling of profound satisfaction, not to say gratitude, for the small part you permitted me to play in helping to bring about the election of the most notably constructive Congress this country has known. It also seems to me that it must be a source of pride and satisfaction to every Democrat who takes the stump this fall that he can dwell exclusively upon the remedial and beneficial legislation enacted by this administration, instead of, as in years gone by, waging only a campaign of opposition upon the short-comings of the Republicans.

Aiding the Whole People.

Never before in our history has any political party undertaken to extend the aid and protection of the government to the people in their struggles, as has the present Democratic administration. It has been a revelation to the thinking people, to find after living under Republican misrule for such a length of time, that this really is, as our great Kentuckian hoped for, "A government of the people, by the people and for the people," when properly and honestly administered. It is a revelation to the business man, to the laborer, to the farmer, and in fact to all classes of citizens. Being myself a farmer, and consequently especially familiar with his environments, his needs and his ambitions, I want to say that I have been delighted to find so many wise measures in his interest enacted by the Democratic administration. I wish to call your attention to a few of the most conspicuously helpful laws passed by this administration in behalf of the people.

Tariff Revised Downward.

If the present administration were entitled to credit for no other legislation than the Underwood Tariff Act, in my judgment, that alone would be sufficient to commend it to the affection and admiration of the American people. Unlike its predecessors, this tariff bill was drawn in the interests of the whole people, and not for a particular class.

After many years of patient waiting we have at last, under Democratic administration, and as one of its first acts, a tariff bill that actually revises the tariff downward, and in many cases removes it entirely from—the necessaries of life. The Payne-Aldridge Tariff Bill, which was so highly commended by President Taft in his celebrated Winona speech, was enough to damn any party, and did defeat and damn the Republican party for ever. No party of whatever denomination can retain the respect and support of a free people, that shows its utter disregard of their rights by promising relief before the election and yet contrives to legislate in the interests of the classes and against the masses when placed in power. This is the history of the Republican party, under the selfish leaders who possessed themselves of that once historic party, conclusively demonstrates. A party may fool the people for awhile, but a day of reckoning is sure to come.

Republican Commendation.

The commendation and support of this tariff bill by a number of the able and conscientious Republicans and Progressive members of both Houses speaks volumes in its behalf, because strenuous efforts were made by the leaders and whips of these parties to line up their men and present a solid front in opposition to the bill. Senator Poinchener, an able Progressive, referring to his vote for the measure, very pointedly said on the floor of the Senate:

"Many of those who ostensibly have been especially grieved over my vote for this bill and who claim to be greatly exercised as to the evil consequences which will follow its enactment are, as a matter of fact, really but little interested in the tariff schedules of the bill. That feature of the bill which really arouses their bitter hostility, although they are curiously silent upon it, is not the tariff at all, but the income tax.

"As a rule those who are in favor of prohibitory or excessive tariff rates are opposed to a properly graded income tax. Some of this class have been compelled by force of public opinion to favor an income tax, but in reality oppose it under the guise of opposition to the tariff reductions in the pending bill. This bill, so far as it modifies the existing law, shifts to that extent the burden of taxation from the poor consumer to the rich possessors of great incomes. Its tendency is to lighten the taxes upon mere sufficiency and increase them upon superfluity. This has been the policy and theory of every wise system of taxation in the most enlightened civilization."

The Income Tax.

To my mind one of the strongest features of the Underwood Tariff Bill is the Income Tax, because it requires those who are ablest and have received the greatest benefits, to come to the support of the government, and to that extent removes the burden from the shoulders of the poor. Instead of requiring every man who buys a suit of clothes, a pair of shoes, a hat, or any other necessity of life, to contribute a large per cent of the price paid to support the government, and incidentally enrich the manufacturer, as he has done under a protective tariff so long, it says to a man with an income in excess of $3,000, you are better able to bear this burden, because you are receiving more of the benefits, so you pay your part, and relieve your less fortunate brothers. What fair-minded man, I ask you, who is willing to live and let live, be he rich or poor, consistently object to such a law?

The calamity howlers, with axes to grind, have criticised this tariff bill, and called it a failure, yet, although it has been in operation only a year, there has been raised more revenue under it than by the Payne-Aldridge bill for the previous year, or in fact for any year in the last ten.

Whom normal conditions are restored and the countries now engaged in destruction, change to production, with the rehabilitation of business and a resultant increase in imports, the Underwood Tariff Bill will abundantly establish the wisdom of Democratic statesmanship.

Let me call your attention especially to what the government has done in direct aid of the farmer:

Government Aid in Eradicating Hog Cholera.

A very careful government estimate made no later than 1913 revealed the fact that six million hogs, valued at $65,000,000, died of hog cholera in the United States that year. As this is a preventable disease, it means that over 700,000,000 pounds of dressed meat and lard, or enough to furnish every family in the land with about 35 pounds of meat has been needlessly lost. This has been allowed to go on unnoticed for fifty years. It remained for this Democratic Congress to take positive and efficient steps to check the awful waste caused by this scourge. So, in February of this year a bill was passed settling aside $500,- 000 for a nation-wide application of serum to eradicate a disease that not only costs the farmers many millions annually, but also gives the people a greatly extended meat supply.
This certainly brings government aid directly to the farmer and lends a helping hand where most needed.

The Smith-Lever Agricultural Extension Act.

The Smith-Lever Agricultural Extension Act is the most far-reaching and progressive measure ever enacted for the farmer. It takes the State Agricultural College, the State Experiment Station and the Federal Department of Agriculture direct to the farmer, the farmer's wife and into the farm home. It is the first Congressional act that considers the farmer's wives and daughters by providing funds for teaching home economics.
This administration was the first one to grasp the tremendous truth that if all of the knowledge applicable and helpful to farming that has been worked out separately by the experimental stations, and by individual farmers upon the farm, and by the scientists in the United States Department of Agriculture could be gathered together and correlated and sent out to the farmer—not in written bulletins which they would not read—but by personal appeal and demonstration, that agriculture would be readjusted, that country life would have an attraction, a dignity and potential influence never enjoyed before. This act makes liberal appropriation for farm extension work. There is immediately available $10,000 for each State Agricultural College and by gradually increasing sums the new law appropriates $4,500,000 annually from the Federal treasury, conditioned upon the individual states providing an almost equal sum. This will make available after the year 1922 nearly $10,- 000,000. In the first nine years of the law's application, the Federal government will have given the forty-eight states more than $23,000,000, and the states themselves will have given more than $18,000,000. Thus in the nine year period now beginning, a grand total of nearly $42,000,000 will go into agricultural extension work.
The co-operative feature of the bill, the states and Federal government working in close harmony, is a very valuable step forward. Efficiency is guaranteed for the wise expenditure of this enormous sum by providing that the work shall be carried on in such a manner as shall be mutually agreed upon by the Secretary of Agriculture and the State Colleges.

If explanation, or excuse, is needed for the outlay of such enormous sums, I would say that it is high time that such steps are being taken. If we are to obviate one of the greatest dangers that threaten our national existence, I refer to the deserted farm home, a constantly increasing tendency towards a system of farming by abandonment, the growth of tenantry and the alarming drift of rural population towards the towns and cities. It is safe to assume that not more than 36 per cent of our population live upon the farms. This tendency will cease only when farm life becomes as attractive as urban life. There is an imperative need on the part of the State and Federal government to reshape rural methods and ideals. We must have better farming, better living, better and more education, which means better and more prosperous citizenship in rural communities. It required a Democratic administration for the Department of Agriculture to make this direct effort to get in touch with the home life of the farmer and to assist and improve his domestic conditions, thereby making the life of the farmer, his wife and family, easier and pleasanter, his work more profitable, an attractive—an actual sympathetic, helpful interest of the government in farm life. Is it not encouraging to the farmer to feel that there is a party in power which sympathizes with agricultural pursuits, and is devoting its best efforts and energy towards the intellectual advancement of that great industry; so that it can no longer be said of the farmer that he is a "manufacturer who buys his raw material al-fresco and sells his finished product at wholesale." It is, in my judgment, both an opportunity and a duty of every farmer in the land to cast his vote to endorse and sustain the Democratic administration in its great constructive and beneficent program of legislation, of which he is one of the chief beneficiaries.

I must mention another great boon to the farmer that this administration has practically worked out and that will be passed into law at the coming short session of Congress, which opens in December, and that is a Rural Credit System, whereby the farmer can borrow money on his land at 5 per cent, and for a period of time running from five to thirty-five years. The amortization scientifically worked out to meet the needs of the borrowers.

Farm Marketing.

This administration has established a Bureau of Marketing and placed the study of distribution, of buying and selling in the hands of experts, so that the farm products may be standardized and prepared, transported and distributed to the consumer at the lowest possible cost and waste, thus substituting up-to-date business-like methods for the slipshod, wasteful plan so long pursued as heretofore.

Parcel Post.

The Parcel Post System has been extended so as to directly aid the farmer in shipping his produce to the city consumer, thus extending and creating new markets and making direct connections between producer and consumer, and not only increasing the farmer's profits, but also decreasing the cost of living.

What Has Been Done for Labor by the Democratic Administration.

In July, 1913, the President procured the enactment of the Industrial Employees' Arbitration Act. The possibilities for good of this wise piece of Democratic legislation are incalculable.
It will soften and mollify the asperities heretofore existing between Capital and Labor, employer and employee. Each interest is assured of a free and fair hearing of its grievances, and their disputes are submitted to and considered by wise and sympathetic arbitrators eagerly anxious to adjust all differences in a spirit of justice, toleration, and fair play. Already numerous, far-reaching issues between Capital and Labor have been settled, notably the adjustment of the pending strike between the railways and their employees in the Middle West, which, if not amicably arranged, would have meant civil war, thereby abundantly demonstrating the efficiency and wisdom of this measure. Many other industrial disputes which would have quickly assumed the proportions of industrial wars between employer and employee have been satisfactorily settled, and millions saved to the contending parties, and all of the inconveniences to the general public independent to such conditions averted.

The Eight Hour Bill.

The Eight Hour Bill extends the operations of the eight hour law both to work done for and by the government, thus putting the stamp of Federal approval upon a working day of eight hours' length.

The Clayton Bill.

The Clayton Bill treats, among other things, the relation of labor organizations to the anti-trust laws, and correcting the same so that labor can no longer be considered a commodity or property, and the regulation of the issues of injunctions, and guaranteeing of the right of trial by jury for alleged contempt committed out of the presence of the court.

The Department of Labor Bill.

This Democratic administration officially further recognized the dignity and importance of labor by creating the Department of Labor, with a Secretary who is a member of the President's Cabinet, thus dignifying labor and furnishing an opportunity of protection and advancement by having a representative in close touch with the President.

In addition to these few prominent measures, which I have mentioned, there are numerous others which this administration has enacted into law, having for their purpose the protection of labor, demonstrating conclusively that the Democratic party is the friend of labor and that its platform declarations on this subject were not mere "vote catchers," but sincere convictions promptly adopted, as soon as it came into power, and the aid and relief so long denied by the Republican party cheerfully accorded to the great masses of laboring people.

The Federal Reserve Act.

The law known as the Federal Reserve Banking Act stands out as possibly of more vital importance to the country than even the passage of the downward revised tariff bill. Certainly nothing showed the prophetic vision, the unswerving and unconquerable courage of our great President more than the passage of this truly marvelous piece of legislation. It is perhaps best that the country should never know the almost insuperable difficulties placed in the way of this bill, from many apparently unrelated sources. We will now, at last, have an elastic currency, instead of having the wealth of the nation congested in one section. It will be spread over the remotest parts of our country, and be available for the legitimate business needs of every section of our vast domain. It is safe to say that this country will never again experience the appalling, and in many instances, ruinous effects of a nation-wide panic, with its desolation and paralysis to the business interests of the nation.
In addition to this unspeakable blessing to the country at large, this act is especially helpful to agriculture.
For the first time, National Banks are permitted to make loans on farm lands and to rediscount the farmers' notes based on staple agricultural products. This Democratic act places $500,000,000 available for the promotion of agriculture. Not the least helpful of the many administration measures, was the Government aid to the crop movement at a critical time. The Secretary of the Treasury placed $50,- 000,000 of Government funds in the banks of the country where most needed for crop moving and marketing purposes. Previously this money was idle in the Treasury as a reserve fund or deposited in the big banks, but it is now loaned to the farmer upon reasonable rates upon good agricultural securities.

The Anti-Trust Measure.

The Trades Commission and Clayton bills recently enacted supplement and elucidate the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and compel fair play and fair competition by both big and little business and place a ban on private monopoly.

The Issues Stated.

The electorate of Kentucky will be called upon at the ensuing November election to select two United States Senators, and a Representative in Congress from each of the eleven Congressional Districts in the State. The all important question and paramount issue is not so much the personnel of the candidates for these offices, as it is whether the people will give Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic Administration the encouragement of their endorsement by electing Democrats to assist and uphold the hands of the President in further carrying on his great program of constructive legislation so propitiously inaugurated, in behalf of the American People; or whether they will rebuke him by electing the Republican or Bull Moose candidates to criticize, to thwart, and to condemn, if possible, every Democratic measure, and thus turn back the hands of progress.

The Importance of Governor Beck- ham's Election.

And in this connection, I want to say that relatively the election of Governor Beckham is vastly more important to Kentucky and to the Democratic Party, than my own. If elected, my term can only be until March 1, 1915, while Governor Beckham's is for six years. He and Senator James will continue throughout the term of the President, and with the able and patriotic Democratic delegation representing Kentucky in the House of Representatives (and I want to say to you here that they are the equal of any delegation representing any state of the Union) will assist in carrying to completion the program of constructive legislation, as mapped out by our own President, embracing many more wise measures. In order to insure their passage he must needs have a safe working majority in both Houses of Congress.

Shall President Wilson Be Indorsed.

This is not the time for party differences and dissensions. There must be a closing up of all the ranks all along the line and a solid front presented to the common enemy.
Democracy, now on the ascendancy, must not be retarded in its onward march to complete victory. The issues in this campaign are simple and clear cut. Shall Woodrow Wilson, one of the cleanest, ablest and most humanly constructive Presidents that ever filled the office, be endorsed or condemned? Now that the people, the plain people, have at last come into their own, and have torn from the greedy grasp of monopolies and trusts the reins of government, will you vote to hand them back again? Are you willing to consign to their care and keeping this government, so that their reactionary trust-fostering, and trust-bulking policies shall be perpetrated, and the interests of the people ignored as they have been so long under Republican misrule.

Are you willing to undo, or to be involved in undoing what the people have so long waited for and voted for and prayed for, an administration honest, tough, wise enough, and strong enough to aid and protect the tumblest citizen in his struggle for the liberty and happiness? An administration that is not dominated and controlled by the trusts?

You haven't the time to listen to,
I feel the time to tell you in detail of all the wise legislation which your next President, with the aid of a Democratic Congress, has been instrumental in placing upon the statute books in your behalf. These Democratic measures, carrying out the declarations of the Democratic platform have been so fair and honest and wise, and fraught with such incalculable benefit and protection to the people of the nation as a whole, that the Republican Party has been disappointed, dazed and amazed. The strenuous and frantic efforts which the representatives of that party have put forth in attempting to secure some excuse to offer to the people to vote for them, is positively amusing, not to say ludicrous. They first began their old, old story, which they have sung so long, of commercial depression, impending a paralysis of business, bankruptcy and ruin. Notwithstanding these calamity howlers, business moved along serenely, and no cloud presaging a panic was seen on the horizon, though they prayed long and loud for that consummation so devoutly wished for by them.

Watchful Waiting.

Then they criticised and ridiculed the President's policy of "watchful waiting," saying that he was making the American nation ridiculous and the laughing stock of the world; that he was a dreamer, an idealist, a mere school teacher. The jingoes blew their horns and beat their drums, and sounded the tom-toms, and cried out for a more vigorous and aggressive foreign policy; the Republican press joined in the hue and cry, until many weak souls quailed, but not so with the great Democratic Christian statesman in the White House, Woodrow Wilson. Serenely he pursued the even tenor of his ways, amid the pitiless storm of criticism and abuse, with a firm hand on the helm of the ship of state. If he had wavered in his own view of the duty of a strong and powerful nation towards a weak and distracted one, we would be engaged in a bloody conflict, the end of which could not be seen, with both continents plunged in war.

My friends, for a moment dwell upon this thought—we would have lost the wonderful opportunity, to demonstrate to the world the blessings of a true democratic government, administered for the good of humanity. Don't you know that we owe it to President Wilson that we are permitted now to have the inspiring vision of this great country lowering humbly above the clouds of war that encompass despairing nations and that the standard of democratic civilization has been placed upon high and unassailable ground?
We being the only first-class civilized nation without entanglements that may lead to war, have a most important mission to fulfill. Europe looks to us now for food and the necessities of life.

When exhausted physically and financially with war, she will look to us for counsel and help in establishing peace. We will also inevitably reap the fruits of our great and sane and peaceful policy. All that is lost to Europe by this holocaust of war will be transferred to us, making us supreme in finance, industry and commerce.
This country owes our President a deep debt of gratitude for the calmly, forceful and dignified way he has maintained the time-honored Jeffersonian rule—"Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none."

As I conclude, with the expression of my thanks for your patience, let me suggest to you a watchword for our contest: Woodrow Wilson, Democracy and Kentucky.

What Would You Do?

There are many times when one man questions another's actions and motives. Men act differently under different circumstances. The question is, what would you do right now if you had a severe cold? Could you do better than take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by people who have used it for years and know its value. Mrs. O. E. Sargent, Peru, Ind., says, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is worth its weight in gold and I take pleasure in recommending it." For sale by all dealers.

Tell the Time in Nine Cities.

London.—There has been presented to the recently-opened London museum an interesting clock, which is said to be the only one of its kind in existence. The clock stands 12 feet high, and in addition to indicating Greenwich time on the big dial, also indicates simultaneously on eight smaller dials the time in as many of the principal cities of the world. It further contains a barometer and a date dial. The timepiece was constructed in 1851 for the great exhibition, and is a handsome piece of workmanship, the casing and fittings being of mahogany, ornolm and bronze. It is said to have cost $5,000.

Attempted Suicide 20 Times.

New York.—In defending his wife's separation suit, Herman M. Atkins said she had made 20 attempts at suicide because he had refused to give her mother $300 to buy a chicken

SURE TO BE ALL ELECTRIC

Time Certainly Coming When Use of Steam as Power Will Be Given Up by the Railroads.

The time is coming when all railroads will be operated by electricity.
Even now we are in the period of the swift speeding, powerful electric dreadnought of the steel highway.
The New York Central railroad, part of whose system is operated by electric power, is having built for its terminal service six electric locomotives, to be the most powerful yet constructed.

They are being built at Schenectady, and will have a higher efficiency than any other high-speed locomotive yet constructed. They are to develop 2,000 horsepower for one hour. Of this the equivalent tractive effort is 14,000 pounds at 54 miles an hour continuously, or 20,000 pounds at 49 miles an hour at one hour rating.
Each locomotive can haul a 1,200-ton train on a level track continuously at 60 miles an hour. Talk about pull!

mony with the other organs. Guar-

Something About Sleep.

How much sleep is necessary for a man? The question was raised centuries ago by Montaigne. "Philistines," he wrote, "may consider whether sleep be so necessary that our life must needs depend on it, for we find that Persus, king of Macedonia, prisoner at Rome, being kept from sleep, was made to die; but Plinius asseverates that some have lived a long time without any sleep at all. And Herodotus re-porteth there are nations where men sleep and wake by half years. And those that write the life of Epimenides the wise affirm that he slept the continual space of seven and fifty

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 21.—The candidate and not the officers of a nominating convention is responsible for filing his own nomenclature certificate, said the Court of Appeals, affirming the Breckinridge Circuit Court in the case of J. C. Brodie against John P. Haswell and A. R. Kincheloe, appealed from the Breckinridge Circuit Court.

Brodie was Republican nominee for circuit clerk in 1909. Haswell was chairman and Kincheloe secretary of nominating convention and omitted to file his name in the list of nominees with the county clerk. Brodie's name was left off the ballot. The other Republican nominees were elected and he sued for $4,800 loss of salary.

Court News.

"Judge Layman," said a well known attorney of the Hardinsburg bar, "is making as a splendid judge. He dispatches business in a way that is satisfactory to both litigants and attorneys and cleans up the docket as he goes. In a few more courts he will have all the old cases off and the business of the court won't be hampered. He hardly ever makes a mistake in his rulings and his judgment is good."
